

2012 Wave Camp

Written by Sigmund

Monday, 24 December 2012 07:22

One of our members, Gavin Stephens with his DG600M, attended this year's annual Wave Camp during the winter at El Mirrador in Kwa-Zulu Natal. Here he had a chance to soar the mighty Drakensberg Mountains where both ridge and wave lift was to be found, along with some good thermals.

The camp was held from 4 to 19 August 2012 and the conditions were not for the faint hearted, or in experienced, with temperatures down to -20C at altitude, 100 kph winds and strong rotor along with rugged baron mountains.

The pictures below are Gavin flying along with Martin Lessle in his Duo Discus as part of Gavin's introduction to the area.

src="images/files/pics/articles/20120810_berg1_gavin-jacobs_ladder.jpg" width="400"

height="300" />
Martin and Gavin near Caithkin Peak  src="images/files/pics/articles/20120810_berg2_gavin-caithkin_peak.jpg" width="400"

height="300" />
Duo Discus on the Little Berg near Jacob's Ladder

src="images/files/pics/articles/20120810_berg3_gavin-dragons_back.jpg" width="400"

height="300" />
Looking towards The Dragon's Back